

BUSINESS & HUMAN RIGHTS ACCELERATOR

FROM COMMITMENT TO ACTION ON BUSINESS AND HUMAN RIGHTS
Mitigate risks, build competitive advantage and become a powerful force for good with the Business & Human Rights Accelerator.

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

Media organizations, employees, consumers, clients, partners, NGOs and investors are increasingly taking note of corporate impacts on human rights. In response, responsible businesses are looking for ways to actively respect human rights and prevent negative human rights impacts — while managing their reputation. How does your company know and show that it respects human rights?

The Business & Human Rights Accelerator is a six-month programme that activates participating companies of the UN Global Compact across industries and regions to move from commitment to action on human rights and labour rights. Through identifying salient human rights impacts, establishing an ongoing due diligence process and developing an actionable plan, the Business & Human Rights Accelerator will empower your company to advance its human rights journey.

PROGRAMME BENEFITS

- Identify and assess your company's actual or potential adverse human rights impacts
- Learn how to integrate those findings across processes and take appropriate action
- Track the effectiveness of measures and processes to know if they are working
- Communicate how impacts are being addressed and show stakeholders that your company is taking action and seeing results
- Build a network of peers, UN partners and experts to support your human rights journey and work collectively to tackle persistent barriers to implementing an effective human rights due diligence process
